Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 20-26 and 31, 33-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Husson et al US Patent 5,919,235.

Husson et al discloses an intervertebral implant (S) comprising a longitudinal flexible body that can be wound in a spiral shape (see Figs. 3 and 2) with a first exterior end (5), a second interior end (1), a longitudinal axis and a cross section of the object which is orthogonal towards the central axis is reduced in size towards the second interior end.

Regarding claim 20, the first point has been interpreted as sections 3 and 2 and the width of the member decreases from the first point (3 or 2) located between the ends to the interior end (see Fig. 1 disclosing the width of the implant tapering toward the interior end.

Regarding claim 21, see Fig. 1, from point 3 the member decreases continuously to point 2 to the interior end.

Regarding claim 22, see fig. 1, from point 8 the member decreases continuously to point 5 toward the exterior end.

Regarding claim 23, the examiner interpreted the second point as point 4.

Regarding claim 26, see Figs. 1 and 2.

Regarding claims 33-34, see col. 5, lines 22-27.

Regarding claim 35, see Fig. 1.

Art Unit: 3738

Regarding claims 24 and 36, see Fig. 2A.

Regarding claim 31, a comparison of the recited process with the prior art processes does NOT serve to resolve the issue concerning patentability of the product. In re Fessman, 489 F2d 742, 180 U.S.P.Q. 324 (CCPA 1974). Whether a product is patentable depends on whether it is known in the art or it is obvious, and is not governed by whether the process by which it is made is patentable. In re Klug, 333 F2d 905, 142 U.S.P.Q. 161 (CCPA 1964). In an ex parte case, product-by-process claims are not construed as being limited to the product formed by the specific process recited. In re Hirao et al., 535 F2d 67, 190 U.S.P.Q. 15, see footnote 3 (CCPA 1976).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 27-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Husson et al US Patent 5,919,235.

Husson et al discloses the invention substantially as claimed. However, Husson et al does not disclose a gap having a width of no more than about 1.0 mm wide, a surface area between about 250 mm² and 750 mm² and the member made of hydrogel.

It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to a person of ordinary skill in the art to modify the width, the surface area and the material property of the Husson et al reference because Applicant has not disclosed that by having the gap width, surface area and the hydrogel material provides an advantage, is used for a particular purpose, or solves a stated problem. One of ordinary skill in the art, furthermore, would have expected Applicant's invention to perform equally well with the gap, the surface area and the material disclosed in the Husson et al reference because it would perform equally as well.

Therefore, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to modify the Husson et al reference to obtain the invention as specified in claims 27-30.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 32 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 11/16/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The Applicant's representative has entered new claims that still read on the prior art.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37

Art Unit: 3738

CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
